

Women of the West Webinar

Student Response Sheet

During the webinar, take notes and answer the questions below or on a separate piece of paper.

WOMEN DECISION MAKERS

Modesta Avila

Notes:

Stop & Note: → Question #1: What does Modesta Avila's story and decision tell you about women in the American West? Think about:

- Who she is (the physical place she came from, and her cultural heritage)
- What she did
- What her experience tells us about what women in the West (what they endured, accomplished, and challenges they overcame in the past as well as today)

WOMEN DECISION MAKERS (continued)

Addie Orr

Notes:

Stop & Note: → Question #2: What does Addie Orr's story and decision tell you about women in the American West? Think about:

- Who she is (the physical place she came from, and her cultural heritage)
- What she did
- What her experience tells us about what women in the West (what they endured, accomplished, and challenges they overcame in the past as well as today)

WOMEN CREATORS

Carolyn Mazloomi

Notes:

Stop & Note: → Question #3: What does Carolyn Mazloomi's story and artwork tell you about women in the American West? Think about:

- Who she is (the physical place she came from, and her cultural heritage)
- What she did
- What her experience tells us about what women in the West (what they endured, accomplished, and challenges they overcame in the past as well as today)

WOMEN CREATORS (continued)

Tammy Garcia

Notes:

Stop & Note: → Question #4: What does Tammy Garcia's story and artwork tell you about women in the American West? Think about:

- Who she is (the physical place she came from, and her cultural heritage)
- What she did
- What her experience tells us about what women in the West (what they endured, accomplished, and challenges they overcame in the past as well as today)

CONCLUSION

Final thoughts:

Stop & Note: → Question #5: Why are these women's experiences important in telling the story of the American West?

- What do their stories tell us about the American West?
- What do their stories tell us about women in the American West?